Recently RED EYE EXPRESS magazine highlighted the DANGERS of smoking bad quality hash, some of which contains very little cannabis at all. We refer to both “Soap” and the soft black gunk often referred to as “Squiggy Black”, “Affy Black” or “Pakki Black”. The article explained that even the better ‘soap’ bars weighing about 250 grams contain less than 10 grams of cannabis pollen (resin glands) and up to 200 grams of ground-up shade leaf, along with various noxious substances like glue to bind it, and colouring agents.
